Religious Revolution in Madagascar (From the ' Daily News.' Dec. 24.) A remarkable religious revolution has taken place in Madagascar. We learn by a letter from Rev W Pool, dayed from the capital on the 231 of Sept, and published in a weekly cotemporary, that the Queen has had the royal idols publicly burned, that she and her aristocracy have embraced Christianity, and that the whole province of Imerina in which the capital is situated has for-lowed the example of the Government The Queen embraced Christianity early in the year, and has all summer been building a chapel royal. Meanwhile, the wooden fence around the temple of the great national idel has been pulled down, and the priests assumed a threathad medicine which would avenue him on their heretic Sovereign. On th 8th of Sept they came in force to the capital to claim their rights as nobles Council was called and it was ided to send the Chief Secretary of State and other high officia a to the sacr d village, seven miles from the capital, and burn the idol be-fore its keepers returned. They set off the same atternoon and by an authorfrom the Prime Minister se zed the idol's house. The wood of the fallen fence was collected, a fire was made and the contents of the temple were taken out to be burned. First, the long cane carried before the idol in procession was thrown in; then twelve bullock, hornfrom which incense or holy water had been sprinkled; then three sourlet umbrellas and the silk robe worn over the idol by the keeper who carried it. Then came the idol's case—the trunk of a small tree hollowed and fitted with a cover; and last of all the idel it-eif. Hardly any of the present generation had seen the god, and great was the surprise when he was produced. Two pieces of scarlet silk about three feet long and three inches wide, with a small piece of wood about as big as a mun's thumb inserted in the middle between them, so that the silk formed as it were two wings, was the great got of Madagascar, whose touch was sanctifying and nearness was preservative. people. "If he be a god he will not aid the efficers! 'we are going to and held it on a stick in the fire that the people might see it as it was consumed. The victory was complete. Next day four other idols snared the same fate, and the rest followed. One was a little bag of saud; another consisted of three round please of wood united ed of three round pleass of wood united by a silver chain. The people looked on in wonder, and when the process was over, sceing that they had no gods to worshin, they sent to the Queen to ask what they were to worship for the future. The government, says the English Independent, adding to the information come ned in Mr Pool's letter, thereapon appealed to the native Curiatians to send Christian teachers, and tians to send Christian teachers, and they at once responded. It was found that 1,280 towns and villages in Imerina, 120 already had Christian churches, and teachers were at once found for all the This movement, which is remarkable for its purely native origin, is another proof that in certain stages of civilization nations may be converted by

An American gentleman now traveling in Europe and writing very inter-esting letters to the St Louis Republican thus speaks of the boys of fingiand:
'The best thing I have seen in England are the boys. We are impressed everywhere, in city and country, with their attractive appearance. Neat, appropriately dressed, respectful in mainers and intelligent looking, they are almost invariably pleasant to see and ruggestive of good home training. Even on public days, when one expects to see boys di-orderly, I have remarked nothing unbecoming. Of course this but lived observation, from which I cluster. ited observation from which I speak, out I cannot but augur well for the tu-ure from such indications. Nor do 1 see any where the ymptoms of English decade no of which we read. England is good, sepend upon it, for another those and years. The next generation will surpass the present, and by gradual reforms she will advance to greater prosperity than she has ever yet known.

GRAY'S ENN ROAD, LONDON,

Tuesday Morning, Feb. 15, 1870. The National Blunder. In a recent edition of the London Times we find a leading article devoted to the half-breed uprising in the Red River country. The writer, confessedly ignorant of the subject, deals with in formation derived from American sources, and reaches conclusions wholly unwarranted by facts. We shall confine our present remarks, however, to the train of thought naturally suggested by the following extract from the article referred to:—'The subject natur-ally excites but a very faint interest: the place is distant; its geographical position is obscure; the causes of the quarrel are only vaguely known; and the result is almost a matter of indifference to individual Englishmen. It is indifference, and does not come within the sphere of British home politics! Indiference, and does not come within the sphere of British home politics! Just so. Pray, what does come within the sphere of British home politics? What should be the grand object of all government? Is it not 'the greatest good to the greatest number'? Has not the writer in the Times sufficient prescience to trace a very intimate connection between the opening up of the new territory in question and home wellbeing? Or is he only another illusration of the proverb about the blind leading the blind? But the words just quoted from the Times are a too faithful representation of the Landish mind. A subject which touches the existence of the nation interest in the breast of Englishmen. The great basin of the Saskatchewan and Red Floringer has an area more than and Red rivers has an area more than four times as large as all England, and presents facilities for the immediate attainment of welldoing unknown else-where. Even American (U. S.) authorities have designated it 'The garden of North America.' Viewed in the light of the 'annihilation of time and space, this vast and inviting territory is within ten days' steam of London! This natural receptacle of England's surplus population is within ten days' steam of myriads of pauperised Englishmen. The money that it is now costing the nation to maintain millions of its subjects in an earthly hell, would more than suffice to transfer them into an earthly paradise. But 'the place is distant? Why is it so distant? 'Its geographical position is obscure.' Why obscure? It is a matter of indifference. to Englishmen whether it is opened up or not. Why? Because of the national sin—or, as Talleyrand would have put it, 'worse than a sin, a blunder,' put it, worse than a sin, a blunder, The national blunder would appear to consist in the circumstance of having lost sight of the true use of the colonies. The opportunity to correct that blunder would appear to present itself in the opening up and peopling the vast territory which, according to the Times, possesses but a very faint interest to Englishmen. If that opportunity be not embraced, and embraced in time, it will pass away forever; and the greatness and power of the British nafield possesses in a sufficient degree the qualities of vastness, tertility, facilities for the elementary duties of settlement, and accessibility. But unless Englishmen rise, and that quickly, to the great days and the duty and the great opportunity, not only will the vision of this earthly pardise fade from their blurred view, but the whole of British America must slip from their peurile grasp. It cannot be concealed that, in this matter, what is England's opportunity is the Domin-ion's necessity. The English people may imagine that they can afford to remain in a state of ignorance and indiffeence about the opening up and peopling of the vast territory referred to—that he huge mass of pauperism may fester and rise until, like the tower of old, it reaches unto heaven. But of one thing the action may rest well assured: if such be indeed her policy, there are those now wing who will see the British sceptre contact within the narrow limits of her own-capitr isles! There undoubtedly are British states. in in a state of ignorance and men-so-called-whose vision span the Atlantic, and who would really prefer to see the nation shrinking her little shell like an oyster; but we pr fer to think such are not to be regarded as the true type of our nation. Indeed. every mail brings fresh evidence of a ripening of public opinion for the great scheme of transferring the surplus home population into the new Dominion, as the only effective cure for pauperism. One difficulty appears still to stagger some. The great bulk of those who leave the British Isles find their way into the United States to build up a rival if not an enemy-and where a hostile tariff shuts them out, or rather in, from British manufactures. The cure for this is in the hands of the nation, and it is simple: Make it as easy to reach the Red River country as it is to reach the open lands in the States; guide and assist the tide of emigration into that new territory, and let the Dominion be a free market for British manufactures. In this way all in-ducement to go into the United States

Laying over Claims. Many of our readers will know that he practice in Cariboo is to 'lay over' mining claims during the winter season -that is to say the owners of claims are, during a specified period, exempted from the necessity of complying with the provision in the Gold Mining Ordinance which renders a claim liable to be 'jumped' if found unrepresented for more than three days without permissicn first obtained from the Gold Commissioner. During the present season claims have been laid over from 1st Nov. 1869, to 20th May 1870. Considerable difference of opinion exists re-specting this practice. There are many, and amongst them those whose opinion is entitled to very great weight, who hold that the practice is inimical to the in erests of the country, and should be discontinued. It is argued that the tendency is to encourage a discontinua tendency to injure the commerce and prosperity of the colony in a variety of ways, by making the mining population more erratic than would otherwise be the case. As a general principle, we hold that all mining affairs are best left as much as possible in the hands of the miners; and it is, therefore, with a considerable degree of caution and relactance that we approach a question like the present; yet we are the more em-boldened to do so from the lact of the Sentinel having already taken up this question. Our Cariboo contemporary has strongly advocated a discontinuance on system of laying over claims. One can readily conceive that there are a large number of claims in Cariboo, especially on William Creek and the gulohes therewith connected, respecting which there need be no hesitation whatever about advocating a discontinu ance of the practice; yet it appears equally clear to us that there is another class of claims to refuse to lay over which might entail very great hardship if not positive injustice. Probably the true policy —the happy medium—would be found in a classification of the claims, and investing the Gold Commissioner with discretionary power to deal with each claim upon its away marks. to deal with each claim upon its own merits Upon the oweer of any claim presenting authorient reasons why he should be exempt from actual occupation for a specified period, the Gold Commissioner could grant a certhe Gold Commissioner could grant a certificate and make a record in a book open for public Inspection. This would appear to be the most likely way of avoiding injustice to individuals on the one hand, and injury to the public interest on the other.
On this and other accounts, one cannot but regret the disappearance of the Mining Board, a representative body peculiarly outsted to a representative body peculiarly entitled to express an opinion upon such matters. We are not aware whether the representative for the Carlboo District has received any instructions upon this subject; but there

THE DICKERS READING .- At the Mechanic's Institute last evening a very excellent audience attended, and rendered to Mr Geo Pauncefort a capital house-warming for his Pauncefort a capital house-warming for his inaugural illustration of Nicholas Nickleby and Boots at the Holly Tree Inn. All our best people were there and testified most usequivocally their appreciation of the artistic manner in which the various phases of character were rendered. There was no striving after effect, yet the individualities were evenly and happily displayed with that ease and telling effect which bespeaks the accomplished delineator. There was the suavier in mode with the forfier in re. The story was listened to with great attention—and when plished deliberator. The term was listened to with the forfiler in re. The story was listened to with great attention—and when punishment fell on the heartless persecutors of poor Smike, the feelings of the audience colminated and testified their approval with loud demonstrations of applause. Roots at the Holly Tree Inn terminated a delightful evening's entertainment. In truth, a chaste and amusing story, illustrating a novel phase in the history of things—even in this most sensational age—to cut the lives, hopes and aspirations of a young lady and gentleman, aged respectively seven and eight years, and gives with all the drollery of Mr Cobbs, the Boots at the Inn aforesaid. We will add that this is an excellent way to spend an evening, as the subject is good, the manner of representation gentlemanly and artistis, devoid of the elightest coarseness or vulgardevoid of the slightest coarseness or vulgar devoid of the singuless coarseness to tage ity, yet illustrating plenty of pathos and concise expression. May we be soon presented with aucthor. We hear it intimated that mine host of the St George will appear in conjunction with Mr Pauscefort at his next merry meeting.

THE CARTER DRAMATIC TROUPS. - This popular company of dramatists, who for some weeks have performed at the theatre, will take their departure to-day for Puget Sound, take their departure to-day for Puget Sound, where they will perform at the principal towns for a few days. Mr Carter, the manager of the company, has labored under the serious disadvantage of illhealth during his stay here, but notwithstanding that drawback his success has been of the most marked and assured character. No company that has visited us within the last four years has played to better houses or realized more deserved and substantial profit. We cordially recommend Mr Carter and his talented wife, Carrie Carter, Mr Robinson and the other members of the company as in every respect entitled to hearty and unqualified support from our American coussins.

ACCIDENT TO RIGHT REV. BISHOP DEMERS. Everybody will be sorry to learn that the Everybody will be sorry to learn that the excellent gentleman who presides over the Roman Catholic Mission in this colony, and who lately left to attend the Ecumenical Council, met with a serious accident while travelling through France. The right reverend gentleman was seated with others in a railway car whon a collision took place. Several of the passengers were stricusly injured—the Bishop sustaining a compound fracture of the left leg. Bishop Demers was quite comforfable at last advices, he having received every possible attention from the inhabitants; and father Seghers had journeyed to Rome to represent this diocese in the Council.

AN ENTERPRISING SAVAGE .- An Indian lad was handed over to the tender care of lad was handed over to the tender care of Policeman Kennedy on Sunday night at 9 o'clock by a gentleman who discovered him in the act of trying to unlook a store drowith a curiously-made skeleton key. Amongst the doors he tried to open were a jewelry store and a pork butcher's. When brought before the Police Magistrate yester day the dusky individual beat his breast with his clenched hand and demanded 'Ikta nika capswallow?' (What have I stolen?) 'Fortunately,' replied the embodiment of the law, 'nothing; and I will take care that you do not for some weeks, at least.' TAXES TOO HIGH, -A leading San Francisco journal thus alludes to the subject of ciseo journal nue anticos of the action of the action in the State of California;—'It is becoming the opinion of leading journalists and statesmen all over the country, that the people are taxed entirely too much. Local taxes are unnecessarily high: revenue and they can, through the Legislature, reduce taxation at home!

FIRE. - Last evening, at 9 o'clock, the interior of a small house on Trounce Alley was observed to be on fire. The slarm was given and the firemen were early on the spot. The Deluge engine threw the first water; the stem Tiger followed with a powerful stream and in a few minutes the flames were subdued. The building was recipced to a mere shell and most of the furniture was burned, Loss about $200. The place was occupied by half-breed women who were absent at the time the fire barken with by half-breed women who SKEPTICAL .- Relearing to the immigration movement, the San Francisco Call designates it as the 'Immigration humbug,' and quos-tions the advantage of crowding every avenu-of employment. It thinks there are those connected with the movement who desire the oreation of paying officer, and expresses the pinion that the State tax-payers cannot and will not spare the money to carry on the scheme.

Two gems of sailors, belonging to the bark Ruby, who refaced to do duty and were taken into custedy; have been sent aboard their versel. The recalcitrant lars are certainly 'procious' in the eyes of their captain at a port where hands are scarce and wages high.

A Bishop Rebuked.

The Rev John Ingle, one of the leading High Churchmen of Exeter, has declined to sign the memorial to the Archbishop of Can-terbury against Dr. Temple's consecration. In a caustic letter addressed to Bishop Tower he says :— You speak of Dr Temple's continued countenance of the Essays and Reviews, forgetful of the fact that such countenance is certainly a matter purely of your own inference and surmise, and may, your own interence and surmise, and may, for all you know, exist only in your own imagination. Your only ground for the charge is that he did not adopt that particular mode of pergation which you [and I too] think he should have adopted. Your other unfounded assumption is an uncharitable one. You speak and write and act as if no one but those who indu your protests and magnificate. speak and write and act as it no one but those who join your protests and memorials can care, for the purity and integrity of the catholic faith. On this head I wish only to say that I would point simply to my own past life and to that of your lordship. There is about the memorial before me only one thing on which I can look with satisfaction. It is the absence of those fearful accusations which made my blood run cold as I read your lordship's letter to the Lord Primus of the Church of Scotland, How can you or anybody else know that even Essays and Reviews' have ruined souls? Does your lordship still done thus to sit on the Throne of the Eternal Judge? I trust that the absence from the memorial of this fearful element of the letter may be taken as proof that your lordship's eyes have been opened to its terrible profane character. to its terrible profane character. ..

BARON HAUSSMAN'S FORTUNE.— Do you wish to know the amount of the Baron's fabulous weslth? The best-part of it lies in the revenues of the Baroness estimated at 50,000 f a year. Add to that the annual Senatorial donation of 30,000 f, and you have a total of 80,000 f. You will scarcely believe me when I say that the Baron retires with only 20,000 f Rente of his own; and yet nothing is more exact. But how many others in his place would not have extended and embellished the capital without following the rather too crooked ways of Superintendent Fouquel? Should we have long to seek for them in the history of our immediate contemporaries? Buron Haussman possesses at Nice the Villa of Montboron, the maintenance of which is costly. He is also proprtetor of the domain of Cestas in the Gironde which he has converted at great expense into a princely residence. The architect charged with the works of repara-BARON HAUSSMAN'S FORTUNE ._ ' Do you the Gironde which he has converted at great expense, into a princely residence. The architect charged with the works of reparation and embellishment shared the common error of his employer's wealth. He counted on an immense fortune being in the Profect's possession and spared no outlay to render Cestas worthy of so opulent a nobleman. Then came in the bills, which reached a figure that caused a terrible outery at the Profecture. 'Quick, quick,' said the Baron to M Alphand, 'let me have these bills reduced. The total is altogether exaggerated and I am treated far too much like a milliondured. The total is altogether exaggerared and I am treated far too much like a millionaire. M Alphand set off to Cestas, and the accounts were taxed but still reached a large sum. A few months clapsed and no payment came. One morning Baron Haussmann received the visit of a gentleman in black, with a white cravat, who told him, with all the respect due to so high a functionary, that if the note was not liquidated within a short delay he should be obliged to lay as embargo on the prefectorial salary. The Baron then entered into arrangements, fixed certain periods, and paid the demands regularly at the times agreed upon.

CHASING A HAT .- The most absurd ight in the world, next to a man with a banbox trying to engineer an umbie-lla down a crowded street in a windy day, is the spectacle a man presents in chasing his hat in similar went-ber. Just before him the tantalizing thing skips along as if bent on enjoying its newlyacquired lberty. He pauses as it whirls under the imminent wheel of a passing under the imminent wheel of a passing omnibus, lurches after it again with new capery, makes desperate grabs which bring up bandfuls of mud, and seems on the point of success when up it goes, clears a lamp post and comes down in a puddle. At last thee, He moves on it cautiously and tries to lank it Percendent to react it and makes a it. Pretends not to see it, and makes a dig sideways at it. Not much. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follieles are destroyed, of the glands atrophied and decayed. But such a remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and viswous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness.
